SLEEPY EYE QUINT PROVES EASY VICTIM

GAME CINCHED AFTER FIRST FEW MINUTES OF HARD PLAY.

SCORE 37 TO 12.

Altho greatly weakened by the loss of "Nibs", center, and "Chick" Olson, stationary guard, the High School basketball team on December 22nd defeated Sleepy Eye by a score of 37 to 12.

Only in the first few moments of play was the result of the game in doubt. Sleepy Eye started with a rush and rolled in three baskets before New Ulm's defense was awake. Then Captain Berg turned the tide with a neat shot and the slaughter began and ere the smoke of the first half had passed, our team stood forth victors by a 16 to 6 count. The second half was a repetition of the first, that is, in as far as our boys were concerned. Ten baskets were made by them in the half, while one lone basket was the best that the efforts of the visitors could produce.

"Mully" Herzog was the star of the game, leading with seven field baskets and five free throws. He and Berg were in the play at all times, Berg also finding the net for six baskets, while Shapiro scored the other six points.

After the first rush, the visitors were unable to do anything and little opposition was given to our boys.

The line-up and summary:

Sleepy Eye	Pos.	New Ulm
Montgomery	l. f.	Shapiro
Crouch	r. i.	Berg
Hauser	c.	Herzog
Jefferson	r. g.	Wiedenman
Peterson	l. g.	Kogge

Baskets from floor, Berg 6, Herzog 7, Shapiro 3, Hauser 2, Crouch 1. Free throws, Herzog 5, Crouch 4, Referee, Groebner. Umpire, Woelf.

HIGH SCHOOL SECOND BRIGADE COMPLETELY DEMOLISHES HANSKA'S FIRST.

Playing on a floor which was comparatively small and slippery the H. S. Seconds completely exterminated the Haska High Basketball Team by a score of 86 to 4. Because of a slippery floor, a wet rag was used to moisten the shoes, in order to keep the boys from slipping. The Haska men were unable to get on to our signals which the audience called "Sign Playing."

The game opened with two baskets

Class of 1916 Present Pictures To High School

AFTER A LONG DELAY EIGHT BEAUTIFUL PICTURES ARRIVE TO REPRESENT OUR LAST YEAR'S SENIORS AND BEAUTIFY OUR CORRIDORS AND ASSEMBLY ROOM.

APPEARANCE OF HIGH SCHOOL IMPROVED

The interior of the New Ulm High School presented an altogether different appearance on Monday morning. The gift of the Senior Class of 1916, eight large pictures, was the cause. The school has sadly needed the decorations for the bare, white walls and the class could not have chosen a more appropriate memorial.

The pictures are high grade carbon prints. They were purchased from the Beard Art Galleries of Minneapolis, which are considered the finest commercial art galleries of the Northwest.

In money lay-out the memorial is probably as large as any class has ever given since the pictures represent a cost of $207.50. This was made possible by the great success of the class play "All the Comforts of Home."

After the class play a Class Memorial Committee, consisting of Stonia Kunze, Marguerite Vogel and George Mayer, was elected for the purpose of choosing a suitable memorial. But because of the lack of time before graduation, they were unable to procure the pictures upon which they had decided.

At the beginning of the present school year Mr. Hutson was asked to take charge of the matter. After a careful study of several art catalogues, a list of pictures was decided upon. While attending the Minnesota Teacher's Convention, Mr. Hutson and a number of the faculty members were able to visit the Lowry School and Central High School, where there are splendid art collections costing hundreds of dollars. After a great deal of consideration the eight pictures were selected and arrangements made with the Beard Art Galleries for their purchase.

Two of the largest pictures, "The Teacher" and the "Appeal to the Great Spirit" have been hung in the Assembly Hall while the others are in the different corridors. There is only one landscape drawing in the group. The originals of "The Teacher," "Appeal to the Great Spirit", and "The End of the Trail" were at the Panama-Pacific Exposition.

"The Teacher" by Daniel Chester French is a memorial to Alice Freeman Palmer, the late President of Wellesley College. She is a noted educator and is especially famous for her interest in the education of women. The original picture now hangs in the Wellesley College Chapel.

Cyrus E. Dallins "Appeal to the Great Spirit" is a picture showing an Indian, evidently prepared for battle or the hunt, making an appeal to the Great Spirit for success in his enterprise. It shows that men of all times and races have felt the presence of a higher being to whom they should appeal.

"The Falls of St. Anthony" is particularly a Minnesota picture. The original by Douglas Volk, is in the Governor's reception room at the State Capital. The chief figure in the picture is Father Hennepin, the French missionary, who was the first white man to explore the Upper Mississippi.

"History" by Frederick Dielman has three central figures Mythology, History, and Tradition. The names on the stone tablets, before which History stands, are those of great historians, both ancient and modern. In the background may be seen the faint reproductions of the Pyramid, the Parthenon, and the Coliseum.

The thoughtful meditation that good literature is supposed to beget is shown in "The Book of Verse" by Kenyon Cox.

"The Song of Ages"—"Peace on Earth, Good will toward men" by Ethel Wright is a fine argument in behalf of the beauty of peace.

The only landscape, Farquharson's "Now Comes Still Evening On," has a title as beautiful as the picture.

"The End of the Trail" by James Eoil Fraser is a picture of an Indian rider and his pony, buffeted by the wind. It conveys a sense of utter weariness.

The picture frames are of dark brown wood and harmonize perfectly with the woodwork of the building. Fastened to each frame is a small plate upon which has been engraved the name of the picture, the name of the artist and the name of the donor.

Mr. Hutson (chasing the kids out of the Assembly Room at 5:00 P. M.) Shoo! Shoo! Shoo all of you!

Buck: I beg your pardon Sir, but all of us in here are NOT CHICKENS!

BASKETBALL QUINT SUFFERS DEFEAT

BOYS OUTWEIGHED AND HAND-ICAPPED BY LOSS OF "NIBS"

LAMBERTON GETS REVENGE

In a rough and hard fought contest the basketball team lost to Lambertton high school last Friday evening by a score of 34 to 17. From the outset of the game it was evident that the Lambertton team had decided to play some of the football that they had failed to play last fall. They outweighed our boys 15 pounds to the man and the narrowness of the Lambertton floor made it difficult to break away for the dashing team work that has characterized the work of our team in former games on our floor.

The failure of Coufal to return from his Christmas vacation in Nebraska, made it necessary to shift Herzog to center. Berg and Shapiro held down the forward positions while Olson and Kogge played at guards.

The first half was evenly fought and ended 15 to 11 in Lambertton's favor. Early in the second half, New Ulm brought their score to 13 points but this was the nearest they came to overcoming the lead which Lambertton had gained. The Lambertton team tightened their defense while their offense worked more perfectly as the game advanced. Hill, their right forward slipped past Kogge for five baskets in this period while Olson's eyes also seemed to bother him to some extent.

After the game a reception was given by the students of Lambertton high for the boys' teams and the girls' team from Tyler which played a preliminary with the Lambertton Girls' team. After long weary waiting for the night train from South Dakota, the boys embarked again for New Ulm.

JOIN THE BIG CONTEST.

Be a contestant for the big box of candy given to the person selling the most tickets for the German plays, that are on the way. It takes every one of us to help it be a success. Show your school spirit, get your parents and friends excited about it, see if you can't sell more tickets than all of the rest of them put together. Don't get discouraged and say, "I can't sell tickets"; probably you have never tried. It is not near as hard as you think it is, because everyone

ARE YOU LOYAL?

Tomorrow (Friday) night the basket ball team will go up against a strong team from Morgan. Because we never played Morgan before, the outcome of the game cannot be foretold. However, rumor has it that Morgan has always had a good team, and this year's team is said to surpass all others.

During the past few games the attendance on the part of the students has not been what it should have been. Were you one of the loyal students that attended these games? If you were, keep it up. If not, there is no better time to show your loyalty than now. Be at the game Friday and help the boys win the fight for the championship. BE THERE.

With this issue of "The Graphos" we have a revised staff. The Editor-in-Chief after having watched and studied the different qualities of various members of the staff had a consultation with the principal and made the above changes.

We hope that we will be able to make "The Graphos" an even better and more interesting paper with the Staff in its present line-up. Norman Johnson is the only new member, the rest having been shifted to new duties. We expect quite a bit of "Buster" and are positive that in him we have gained a very good addition to the Staff.

SOCIETIES AND ORGANIZATIONS

Not so very long ago while resting easily on one of the beautiful, luxurious seats of a Northern Pacific railway coach, having nothing else to do I glanced over the pages of a copy of "The Minneapolis Journal". I read all the news and had read and re-read the sporting page for the third time when a notice caught my glance. It read, "The Amalgamated Association for the Amelioration of Vice will hold its annual meeting in the office of the Hop's Brewing Co. at eight o'clock this evening."

That an organization of this kind should have a meeting in the office of a Brewing Co. struck me as being rather singular. However I did not think of the matter again until I was in my room at the Radisson, when, glancing over a later edition of the same paper I found that at a meeting of the Amalgamated Association for the Amelioration of Vice, Jack Peters (a notorious New York gambler) would speak. As I had only a minor engagement for the evening, I decided I should try to attend. Everything went off well; I was admitted.

Imagine my disappointment at hearing speeches, giving pointers to gambling den owners, on how to more successfully evade the police. Thoughly disgruntled with myself at having wasted the whole evening, and disgusted with the idea that a vice ring disguised with so noble a name existed I walked slowly down the avenue to the Radisson. Try as I would I could not forget that disappointment. Why, the very idea that so great and noble a thing as an organization which undoubtedly was meant from the first to be a factor in the combat of good against evil, could exist for this degrading purpose. I thought of all the societies which are doing an unfathomable amount of good, such as charitable, labor and literary societies, and now this particular organization in so cowardly and detestable a manner was disguising its end and purpose.

By this time I had reached the Radisson. I took the elevator for the second floor and went to my room. I sat down before the fireplace in a big comfortable rocker and was soon lost in day dreams. But the subject matter of everyone of them was always the same thing, my evening's experience. On one side I saw this despicable set of gamblers, hiding under a noble name, and on the other, a truly great organization, the Red Cross, in the service of which that illustrious woman, Florence Nightingale, sacrificed herself. Oh! What a contrast!

Just then a pine knot in the little fire which was slowly dying away in the fire-place burst into flame, and lit up the room for a moment. Something on the little finger of my left hand gleamed, and dazingly reflected a beam of light into my eyes. I looked and behold! There was my Protean ring! It seemed to beg for a moment's consideration.

Then in an instant, I remembered it all. It vividly brought to my mind everything that the word Protean means to me. This ring is the only link connecting me to the happy days spent in that organization excepting the ineradicable impression it had left on my mind.

In my sophomore year after the debating season was over, some of us boys organized a society. I am proud even to this day when I am forty-five years old, to be able to say that I was a charter member of that society, which we named the Protean Literary Society.

Some people may ask What is the value of a literary society? To them I would say: This organization caused me to awaken. Its ideals became my ideals and I was glad of every opportunity it gave me to serve it and be served by it. It made a new person of me in many respects. I did not wish to disgrace the society, and I worked as never before. At every effort I made, no matter in what field of occupation it was, I made unprecedented efforts. I always saw the blazing letters P-R-O-T-E-A-N, before me, urging me on. I could very distinctly remember the exciting and interesting Parliamentary sessions. That organization was the brightest spot in my high school life. I owe a great debt to that organization, a debt that I can never fully appreciate.

Even in these days when I happen to be within striking distance of good old New Ulm I go to the High School to attend a Protean meeting. It is just the same as it was when I left it, and it is still performing its function of stirring up more interest in worth while living.

Every Christmas the Year Book of the Protean Society reaches my home in Norcastle, Virginia, and nothing interests me so much as this message from my friends, the Proteans.

The porter's knock at the door and his voice announcing a telegram for me, rudely awakened me from my dreams, but nevertheless I've often since thought what a blessing that not all organizations and societies are such as the Amalgamated Association for the Amelioration of Vice was.

An ex-active but deeply interested member.

Remember. Morgan is here tomorrow.

LETTER OF THANKS FROM THE BORDER.

The boys on the border greatly appreciated the gift sent them by the students of the High School. Tom Pfaender expressed their thanks in a letter sent to Mr. Hutson which he read in the Assembly Room. He also wrote that they had a scrap about the books at first, but finally settled the matter to the satisfaction of everyone.

The following are the books sent to them:

"Penrod and Sam"—Booth Tarkington
"The Four Million"—O'Henry.
"Kim"—Kipling.
"The Black Arrow"—R. L. Stevenson.
"The Varmint"—Owen Johnson.
"Petey at Siwash"—George Fitch.
"Seventeen"—Booth Tarkington.

NIBS COMES BACK.

After a week of suspense, during which it was feared (especially by the girls) that certain attractions down in Nebraska would be too much for our famous center, the whole school was overjoyed to see Nibs back last Monday.

We still wonder what kept Nibs so long.

On Tuesday, Dec. 9, a brief meeting of the Senior class was held at 1:00 P. M. in Room 105, for the purpose of selecting graduation announcements.

A good many specimens were shown but too many to pick from. Therefore a committee of Caroline Stelz, Roy Fenske and Max Freitag were elected to select one.

PROTEAN LITERARY SOCIETY MEETING.

Last Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock, the Protean Society met in their usual meeting place in the High School. The meeting was one of the liveliest ever experienced by the society since its organization.

The main feature of the business meeting was the election of officers for the second semester. Several officers of the first semester were again chosen, although for different positions. The election was very close, and the officers elected are as follows: President, Norman Johnson; Vice-president, Emanuel Manderfeld; Secretary, Victor Reim; Treasurer, Theodore Crone; Sergeants-at-arms, Joseph Binder and "Pattie" Eibner. The latter two were elected unanimously. Held was voted a new member of the Society. President Reim stated that every lucky (?) member should be required to give an inaugural speech; but he was also elected to an office, so he was obliged to consider himself as a "victim". After this, the business meeting adjourned for four minutes to discuss a "weighty problem."

The literary programme was opened by a very interesting account of the life of J. J. Hill, by Maurice Dougher. He talked about the railroad career of Mr. Hill from 1873 to 1878. An oration, entitled "A Return in Defeat," picturing the return of the defeated Confederate soldiers to their devastated homes, was given by Joseph Binder. Alexander Krzmarzick next gave six popular maxims and their origin. The society next represented a meeting of the Commercial Club of New Ulm. A committee consisting of Manderfeld, Current, and Geisler, brought up the business. Manderfeld brought up a resolution that a "White Way" should be extended way out to Schell's Brewery on account of Schell's famous "mineral" water. He called attention to the fact that the "Wallachei" needed such a reform very badly. Several members were opposed to this because they thought that the project would be of no avail, because the lights might not last very long, since the people out there were very warlike. Current brought up the project of extending the "White Way" to both the C. & N. W. and M. & St. L. depots, so that the people walking up to the city at night, might see their way. Geisler's resolution contained a project for a public library, a project which most of the members favored. Acting Chairman Schnobrich yielded to a motion that all these resolutions be laid on the table. Hank was very uneasy throughout the meeting. George Mayer, our guest of honor, related his experience of the last three months at Elmhurst, Ill., and when the proposition to extend a "White Way" to Schell's mineral water spring was brought up, he, as an expert authority (?) gave his opinion that New Ulm will not become dry before the Pacific Ocean, and stated that he was in favor of the project. Johnson was given three "Gut Heil" for his successful term as treasurer. After hearing the Critic's report, the Society adjourned.

SENIOR GIRLS WIN.

The Senior Girls defeated a pick-up team 28-8 in a preliminary game, Friday, Dec. 22. The pick-up team was made up of girls from the three lower classes. The game was rather one-sided because the girls of the pick-up team were unaccustomed to their team mates and could not use very good team work.

Ellen Ochs was the basket shooter for the Seniors, making thirteen baskets.

Seniors.	Pos.	Pick-up.
F. Ochs	f.	F. Collins
E. Jahnke	f.	I. Stamm

SOME CHRISTMAS CELEBRATION

When the students came to school Dec. 22nd they surely realized that Christmas was near at hand. Two beautiful Christmas trees adorned the stage and the smiling Mr. Hutson made up for the seeming absence of a Santa Claus. As it was the freshmen undoubtedly, one and all must have thought that Mr. Hutson was that famous man. After fifteen minutes of singing the fun started with the arrival of a real Santa Claus. He inspected the trees and having shown his approval proceeded to distribute the presents, with which the trees were adorned. The following received very appropriate presents, especially Miss Hernlund, Mr. Viergever and Mr. Hamlin; Miss Hernlund receiving a set of kitchen utensils, which no doubt will soon see service, Mr. Viergever a jumping jack, a penholder and a bag full of "eats" and Mr. Hamlin a handsome gold ring, which will also undoubtedly be put to use in the near future. Mr. Hutson received a horn and some popcorn balls, Miss Teschner a pin tray and a piece of stick candy, Mr. Hess a cigar, Miss Eggar a flat iron and stand, Miss Juni a fan and an apple, Miss Watson a small doll, Miss Pederson a whistle, Miss Koch some stick candy, Anne Mueller a whistle, for perfect conduct the day before, Emily Groebner a small doll, Miss Kester an educated mouse and cage, Miss Pierce a watch and fob, Miss Turner a hoe and rake, Mrs. Meyer a beautiful cut glass bowl from the D. O. T., Miss Johnson a pair of scales, Mr. Haynes a pencil and some pop corn balls and last but not least every member of the Freshmen class received an animal cookie from the kindhearted Santa Claus.

is anxious to go and they all want tickets as soon as they can get them.

It is going to be "the" event of the year. Not for over five years has a German play been given by the students of the High School. All of the players have had experience and it can't help but be good.

The following committees have been appointed by Miss Teschner and Mr. Hamlin:

Advertising Committee:

- Armin Koehler
- William Pfaender
- Elizabeth Russell
- Hilda Sommer

Ticket Selling Committee:

- Joseph Epple
- Douglas Garrow
- Viclette Steinmetz
- Grace Rinke
- Helen Berg

The following rules have been made by the committee in charge:

1. Any person may enter the contest.
2. Not more than ten tickets will be given to a person to sell at one time. As soon as the tickets are sold more may be obtained.
3. After the sale of ten tickets the money for the same may be turned in to the committee or the person in charge of the tickets.
4. The contest begins Jan. 24 and will close on Feb. 7 at five o'clock P. M.
5. Each fifty-cent ticket counts two points each; each thirty-five cent ticket counts one point.

The person having the most points on Feb. 7 will get the big box of candy, the ones having the next two lowest number of points receive the other two boxes of candy that are on display at Eibner's confectionary.

Don't fail to join the contest. Get your tickets now.

by Pfaender, which were immediately followed by about five by Fenske, and four by Schleuder. The Hanska men fought desperately, but all in vain. Garrow outjumped his opponent nine out of ten times. He placed the ball exactly where the signals called for every time.

While four of the N. U. players were standing in the corner wetting their shoes, a Hanska player succeeded in making a basket. The first half ended with a score of 44 to 2 in our favor.

The second half was started with a basket by Garrow. Hanska again made a basket in the same manner as in the first half. A. Wiedenmann, one of our guards, played a splendid game, his man getting only one basket. As shown by the score, baskets were made at the average of one basket per minute.

The line-up was as follows:

H. S. Seconds	Pos.	Hanska
Fenske	l. f.	Chambers
Schleuder	r. f.	Paulson
Garrow	c.	R. Moe
Pfaender	l. g.	Ouren
A. Wiedenman	r. g.	Kindi

Summary: Subs., Current for Wiedenman, Lebert for Schleuder. Field baskets: Fenske, 18; Schleuder, 17; Garrow, 4; Pfaender, 3; Chambers, 1; Paulson, 1. Free Throws: Fenske 2. Referee: Van McHale; Umpire, Haynes.
