JUNIORS HOLD HALLOWEEN FROLIC

Masqueraders Are Well Fed and Entertained.

PRIZES GIVEN.

We must thank the class of nineteen-twenty-two for another Masquerade Halloween Party. You remember the one they had last year when they were Sophomores. They had another last Friday evening. Everyone came masked—they had to, in order to be admitted. The halls were too crowded to be comfortable. Everyone was running around looking for some tell-tale mark on some person so as to find out who's who (and sometimes who's whose). Someone came up to me and marked something on the palm of his hand with his finger. I guess it was supposed to be my initials. It looked more like "X-Y-Z" than anything else. I wonder who he thought I was.

After we had enough time to make up our minds as to who we were bumping into, and then change them two or three times, we were led into the Gym. It was all decorated in orange and black crepe paper, pumpkin faces, pumpkins without faces, corn stalks and straw. The straw was scattered all over the floor. At the further end of the gym was a small platform about fifteen feet wide, with a "background" of brown folding screens. For foot-lights, there was a row of pumpkins. A double row of chairs formed a horse-shoe facing the stage.

After all of us had squeezed into the gym—and it took some squeezing to get through the mob that wanted to get in at the same time we did—someone struck up a march on the piano, and we all formed a line and marched up and down and all around the gym, and succeeded in getting so mixed up that we had to do our guessing all over again. We stopped this after a while; and everyone tried to get seated in the same chair, judging by the hard time, I had in getting one. All lights were turned off, and the camp-fire "turned on." It wasn't half bad, considering, of course, that it wasn't the real thing. Then we sat there some more and changed our minds again about who everybody was, while Mr. Henry, Mr. Gloor and Mr. Kirchoff tried to decide who had the best costumes.

Vera Schreyer received the prize for the most artistic costume. She was dressed as "Miss America." The prize for the funniest costume was awarded

GRIDIRON WARRIORS SPLIT TWO BATTLES

WINTHROP IS OVERWHELMED WHILE STRONG
MANKATO TEAM IS VICTORIOUS

GOOD FIGHT

NEW ULM 60—WINTHROP 0.

The Winthrop eleven was forced to take defeat at the hands of the High School eleven last Saturday with a final score of 60 to 0.

We took our opponents off their feet in the first few minutes of the game and immediately went across for a touchdown. The team kept up its good work and before the first quarter was over we had another touchdown to our credit. The two made in this quarter were made by "Yens" and Bruce.

The second quarter was almost a repetition of the first except that the boys satisfied themselves with one touchdown instead of two. During this quarter the subs were given a chance to prove their ability in a game. The same line-up was used during the third quarter. Again we were satisfied with one touchdown.

The fourth quarter was played with the regular line-up and the boys determined to pile up a few scores. "Yens" took the pigskin across for three in this quarter while Bruce and "Snooks" romped off with one apiece.

We admit that our opponents were rather light and it was natural that we should beat them, but they put up a good resistance and it took more than a scrub team to run off with such a heavy end of the score as our boys did.

Credit is due our opponents for their good spirit and also in their good playing. Olson, who held down the quarterback position played an exceptionally good game. He was very fast and did nearly all the tackling for his team. The backfield as a whole played good and probably would have had better success, had their line been able to hold better. However, our boys went through our opponents line easily and when the ball was in our possession they were thrown aside while our backfield went through for great gains. There was a pretty strong wind and our passes did not work very well but "Slippery" and "Wally" managed to pick out each a shoe string, thereby making great gains.

Line-up.

L. E.—Franta; R. E.—Tauer; L. T.—E. Rieke; R. T.—Fritsche; L. G.—R. Thies; R. G.—L. Harris; C.—Roman Kretsch; L. H.—B. Harris; R. H.—C. Herzog; Q. B.—George Langmack; F. B.—J. Graff (Capt.)

NEW ULM 0—MANKATO 34.

In a game which was hard fought from beginning to end the Mankato High School eleven grabbed the large end of the score from our boys at the Mankato Fair Grounds last Saturday. It was a clean game and the Mankato team deserved every point they got, for with one exception they had to put forth a supreme effort in order to cross our goal line. Due to long and concentrated practice our opponents had developed wonderful teamwork and it was by this point and the fact that they were a little faster than our boys, that they won the game.

As has been the case in every game which we have lost this season, our opponents scored in the first few minutes of play. This, however, did not dishearten our fellows but they got down to business and held the opponents so that they were not able to score again until the last part of the second quarter.

The second quarter was as hard fought as the first. The play by which our opponents scored, was pulled in the last part of this quarter and deserves special mention. It was a fake run around right end whereby our men were all pulled over by a man running low as if carrying the ball, when in reality the play went around the other end and by the time our men noticed this the man with the ball was racing down the field with a strong interference to protect him and our men had no chance of catching him. They had tried to work this play before in the game but failed to make it successful until this time. The second half ended with the score 14-0.

When the second half began our chance for winning the game had not yet entirely slipped away and the boys were bent on scoring. Our backfield seemed to be able to plunge the opponents' line fairly well but as soon as we neared their goal they tightened up and we were always forced to punt. Had the line worked together better the backfield would doubtless have been able to gain more ground. Much credit is due the backfield and some of the line especially the left side. "Snooks" Herzog at half did some fine plunging and gained considerable ground for us. George at quarter, although handicapped with his 130 lbs. plus a sore

SPELLING MATCH TO BE STAGED

Class Rivalry Will Be Keen in Coming Contest.

TEAMS PICKED.

After having had various programs for the student body the committee composed of the four class presidents decided that they would have a spelling contest or a spell-down as it is commonly known. After holding meetings in the various classes preliminaries were staged and five students were selected in each class. The Normal Department, which is a part of the Senior class asked for permission to have a team of their own. The Seniors consented and the "will be school marms" will match their skill against the other teams. It will be noticed that there are but a few boys on the teams and a reason for this has not yet been accounted for. The teams are as follows:

Freshman.

1. Verna Dahl.
2. Maybell Simmet.
3. Veronica Zankl.
4. Oscar Muesing.
5. George Gastler.

HONOR ROLL.

In the past it has been customary to publish an Honor Roll each month of those students whose monthly averages were 90 per cent or above. Following are the lists for the first two months:

September.

Freshmen—Verna Dahl, 90 2-5; Catherine Young, 90 1-5.
Sophomores—Elmer Lippmann, 90.

October.

Freshmen—Verna Dahl, 90 3-5; Esther Pufahl, 90; Ivan Stone, 90½.
Sophomores—Caroline Guggisberg, 91 2-5; Elizabeth Hintz, 91; Elmer Lippmann, 90 1-5; Amy Mather, 90; Freda Olstad, 91¼.
Juniors—Lillian Eyrich, 91 3-4.
Seniors—Alice Schmidt, 90½.

With the beginning of the third month of school all high school activities are usually in full swing. It is always very hard to get things started and going the first two months of school but by now everything should be moving along smoothly.

The high school students are to be praised on the loyal support they gave when asked to join the Athletic Association, subscribe for "The Graphos," or buy a ticket for a football game. I hope they will keep up this spirit all through the year.

It is now almost time again to get ready for the Declamatory and Oratorical contests which are always held towards the end of the first semester. Every high school student should know what this is, but for the sake of the Freshmen I shall have to go into detail.

Every student that wishes to try out for these contests is given an oration, or a declamation to memorize within a certain length of time. The girls of each class have their contests to choose two girls to represent them in the inter-class contest. In the inter-class contest one girl is chosen to represent our high school in the district contest. The boys have the same method of choosing their representative for the district contest. The boy and girl winner of the district contest speak at the state contest.

Do not think that you have no talent along this line, maybe you haven't, but these contests are not held to portray talent. They are given as practice along the line of public speaking. Often, at a banquet, or at some meeting, you are called upon to give a speech. If you take part in these contests, it will be easier for you to do so. Those that have tried out, I know, will never regret it. If you did not win in last year's contest, be a game loser and try again. There is nothing like trying.

I hope a large percentage of the high school students will come out when the call is given so that there will be a good representation of each class to choose from.

BADLY MIXED.

"Want ads" are sometimes comic in their phrasing. Here are recent specimens:

Annual Sale now on. Don't go elsewhere to get cheated—come here.
For Sale—A piano, the property of a musician with carved legs.

Bull dog for sale—will eat anything; very fond of children.

Wanted—An organist, and a boy to blow the same.

Lost—Near Riverside Park, an umbrella belonging to a gentleman with a bent rib.

Wanted—A room by two gentlemen about thirty feet long and twenty feet wide.

SPINSTERLY PHILOSOPHY.

Uneasy lies the head that wears electric curlers.

Men may come and men may go, but I go on forever.

Hanging is destiny,—and wedding likewise.

Widow weeds grow fast.

Out of celibacy, into wedding attire

Out of the frying pan, into the fire.

AMBITION.

"Sonny, the semester report of your work is very bad. Do you know that when Mr. Wilson was your age he was at the head of his school?"

"Yes, Pa, and when he was your age he was President of the United States."

HOW MANY DO YOU KNOW?

One day in spring students went down to the river. Where the old mueller used to have his mill, a girl fell in but they saw our hero fisher out. Some of the boys began to thies him, so he went home with amann who happened to be going that way too. Someone suggested boating but the rest said, "If hugo, we will too," but he didn't so no one else did.

Suddenly a storm came up and it started haling so they all went into an empty siebenbrunner which was plenty big for all of them. One of the kids got scared and said "I wanda go home," but the rest didn't know if she could pfaender way so they didn't let her go. Before long "Silly" the only wellmann in the gang pulled off some of his ancient witt and humor to cheer the crowd. After the storm they came across some current bushes and each one got his fill.

It was now time to go home, to keep their minds occupied they decided to make up reims and the best rhyme was to have a prize. Now each one thought to himself, "I hope alwin that prize." Stanley who is the youngest and not the olson of a well known family was appointed judge. When all rhymes were in it took such a long time to decide which was best that all the students got home spaeth for supper.

ON GOES THE TAX COLLECTOR.

The tax collector stopped at a farm house near New Ulm.

"Got any property about?" he asked.
"Yes, I've got a small lot," said the woman of the house.

"Where is it?"

"About two miles down the road."

"Has it been improved?"

"Well, I got a husband there, but I can't say that improves it any."

knee also played a good game. It is needless to mention the work of Capt. "Yens" and Bruce because we all know that they do not know how to play a bad game. The Mankato "gang" added another score to their column during this quarter.

As is natural for any team, when the end of the game is drawing near with a luck seeming to be all going to the other fellow, our fellows became a little disheartened in the last quarter. We had one chance to score and that, after Schleuder had been put in instead of George because George's sore knee made it impossible for him to play. Schleuder got off on a long end run and got past all our opponents except one and there our chance to score failed when he was tackled and brought to the ground. After scoring twice in the fourth quarter the game ended with the score 34-0 in our opponents' favor.

Drill, Wood and George played a good game for the opponents. Drill played center and certainly played his position well. It was impossible to plunge the line on either side of center or the two guards, for he covered nearly half the line. Capt. Wood at tackle played a pretty good game.

HALLOWEEN FROLIC.

Victor Zimmermann, dressed as "Uncle Remus." The prize for originality went to Eddie Witt for his costume, "Colonel McNutt." "Bubbles" received the prize for the best group.

Then everyone unmasked. It was rather interesting to see how far off we had been in our guesses,—and sometimes rather embarrassing. We made so much noise that Reinhold Thies had a hard time quieting us for the next number.

This was a "Ghost Song." This was really a spooky affair—all about a woman whose husband had died and her going to the grave yard and seeing "the worms" crawl in and out.

We soon found out the why and wherefore of the stage. There was to be a program. The first number was a reading by Lillian Eyrich. She gave "The Tin Gee Gee," and recited it in fine style.

Next came a duet by Mildred Eibner and Howard Haling. It looked awful to see a lady of about 1890 or 1900 singing a duet with a sixteenth century court gentleman, but it went fine. They sang "Little Orphan Annie," telling all about the goblins getting you, if you don't watch out.

The next number was a ghost story by Howard Vogel. He gave a "nigger" story about "De Golden Arm." It was very well done and extremely interesting. He was forced to give two encores.

The next number was one of the funniest on the program. Miss Crooker was the Master of Ceremonies. She had several of the faculty represent furniture and bric-a-brac. As she was calling them up and introducing them, she had everyone guessing. It looked as if the players didn't know what was to happen, themselves. The stage was soon filled so that part of the floor surrounding the stage had to be used. It was quite crowded at that. After she had introduced all she suddenly remembered that she didn't announce the name of the play. It was "Gathering Nuts." Then everyone left the stage. It took some time, I thought, for the joke to sink in, but it won a good laugh. We've got something on the teachers now,—that is, on all except Mr. Kirchoff. He refused to be a nut.

Next Arbac-Ali tried to do some mind reading. He had every one write questions on slips of paper and seal them in envelopes. After all the envelopes were collected, he told the contents of as many as he had time for. He says he didn't hold them between the foot-lights and his face and read them that way so I suppose he didn't. Wonder how then. He would have been alright if he had answered the questions correctly, but he didn't.

After this, some charades were acted out by Babe Hough, Gertrude Esser and Howard Haling.

Then came the eats. This consisted of peanut butter sandwiches, cocoa and nabiscos. It tasted good.

By that time, it was time to go home. It was rather cold outside, and getting late, and some of us were beginning to get sleepy; but we were feeling good, so that didn't interfere with telling everyone about the good time we had. The Juniors believe everyone had a good time in spite of the fact that no dancing was allowed. What do you say? Did you?

IT COULDN'T BE DONE.

Somebody said that it couldn't be done,

But he, with a chuckle, replied,
That "Maybe it couldn't," but he would be one

Who wouldn't say so 'till he'd tried.
So he buckled right in with a trace of a grin

On his face. If he worried he hid it.
He started to sing as he ackled the thing

That couldn't be done—and he did it.
Selected.

Twinkle, twinkle, little hair,
How I wonder what you air,
Up above that lip so brave,
For goodness sake, why don't you shave?

EXCHANGES

"The West High Weekly" is a very nice paper. It contains some very interesting jokes, poems and editorials.

"The Purple and White." The A. H. S. has also adopted a Lyceum course. Many schools are doing this as they see the benefit the pupils derive from such a course. Why not improve your paper with some snappy jokes?

"The Hamline Oracle" comes out once a week. It is a good paper, containing interesting news. But like many other school papers it lacks a very good asset, namely, a joke column.

"The High School Owl" is a snappy little paper. The good appearance of the front page of the last issue was considerably run-down by a bad-looking head-line.

"The Houn' Dawg" is quite a good paper. But it could be improved very much if the advertisements would be taken off the front page, where they are entirely out of place.
