LIPPMANN WINS LINCOLN MEDAL N. U. TO PUT ON TWO CONCERTS

PRIZE ESSAY

Fred Lippmann of the Senior class wins the honor of having written the best tribute to Lincoln, and hence he is the possessor of the beautiful bronze medal decorated with the famous likeness of Lincoln by a famous artist. The Junior and Senior classes competed for this prize, which is offered to high schools by the Illinois Watch Company. Schleuders' Jewelry Store presented the medal to our high school, and Meyer's to the Catholic high school. In the latter school Helen Sebald received first place.

Fred's essay was chosen from a group of nine papers, which were picked as the best. These included essays written by the following: Fred Lippmann, Warren Johnson, Sylvia Eyrich, Morton Ouren, Margaret Schmid, Milton Chambard, Henry Somsen, Margaret Eichten and Helen Hage. All of these papers were very good and will be printed in the local papers in the future.

HISTORICAL ESSAYS.

Some time ago the particulars of an essay contest sponsored by the Minnesota State Historical Society and the Minnesota Federation of Women's clubs were read to the various English classes in our high school. Several students immediately decided to participate in this contest which involves a total of $200 in cash prizes to be divided among the high school students of each Congressional district who wrote the best essays on early Minnesota history before February 1, when the contest closed.

In addition to our High school the Holy Trinity High school of this city, St. Mary's High school of Sleepy Eye, St. Raphael's High school of Springfield and the Hanska High school were entered in the contest in this county, making a total of five schools.

Will Heidemann of New Ulm High school wrote the winning essay in Brown county, entitled "The Story of My Grandparents in Minnesota," and Edna Cooling, also of N. U. H. S., was awarded second place for her essay, "The Beginnings of My Community," while third place went to Dolores Kuelbs of St. Mary's, Sleepy Eye, who wrote "An Old Settler's Story of Pioneer Life in Minnesota." These three essays have been sent to Mrs. E. J. Jones of Worthington for entry into the district contest. There is also a state contest in which the winners of the district contest will compete.

The library was open several nights last week for the benefit of the students taking Modern and American History. This certainly was a privilege and all the students appreciate it.

Helen Hage and Edna Larson took a long hike one afternoon after school last week. They must have enjoyed it greatly, because Helen went again the next day.

N. U. REVENGES DEFEAT

Lamberton Loses.

Lamberton, who defeated the New Ulm team several weeks ago, was defeated in the return game played here a week ago, Friday, in a speedy game.

During the first half it was very doubtful as to who was going to win. Both teams were working in good form. The score always stayed in favor of the New Ulm team, but often the Lambertons threatened to break down the lead of the New Ulm team. There were numerous fouls called on both sides and two players of Lambertons were put out on that account. Just before the half ended New Ulm put in two baskets to give them a five point lead. The score at the end of the half being 8 to 13.

In the second half New Ulm showed their ability. With wonderful teamwork and accuracy in shooting field

NICOLLET TAKES DEFEAT.

New Ulm Wins by One Point.

Nicollet staged a wonderful comeback in the last half, bringing fear of defeat to the New Ulm players. The only thing that saved New Ulm was the ending of the game when the score was 24 to 23 in their favor.

The Nicollet players seemed to be lost on their own floor in the first half, while New Ulm did most of the scoring during this time. The defense of the New Ulm team was very good. Niemann, playing a wonderful game at standing guard, let Nicollet make only two baskets and two free throws. The score at the end of this half was 18 to 6.

In the second half Nicollet began to fight at top speed and made many brilliant shots. Nicollet would not let down and their offense became so strong that the New Ulm boys found it hard to hold down the score.

F. S. D. C. PRESENT PLAY.

The Dramatic Club meeting was held Monday, February 1, 1926. After the play, "Squaring It With the Boss" was put on, the following facts were brought out in the business meeting.

In honor of National Drama Week, February 6 to 13, the Sears-Roebuck Radio Station is offering $500.00 in prizes for the best amateur one-act plays to be submitted by any non-professional previous to February the first. After the students were given specific directions to be followed in writing a play especially suitable for radio, several worth-while attempts were made; and after being corrected, the best ones were forwarded to Chicago. We hope to hear that we Score 20 to 12.

Friday night, the local teams battled with Lambertons' teams, and gave the spectators the opportunity to witness one of the scrappiest fights of the season and also the cleanest playing. The passing of both teams was splendid, and both teams put up a hard fight. A few weeks ago our team was defeated on Lambertons' floor, and we evened the score by defeating them on our home floor. Cora Meidl, who proved to be a "sure" forward made one field goal and two free throws. Ann Oversea, Lambertons' star forward, netted four baskets, which ended the first half with a score of 8 to 4 in Lambertons' favor.

In the second half, our girls outplayed their opponents, although the girls were plucky and fought every minute. Polly, who went in the second Defeat Juniors.

Wednesday after school, the last of the tournament games was played. The Seniors and Juniors were the contestants and it turned out to be a most interesting game. The girls of both teams showed pep and enthusiasm. It was a hard-fought game throughout the four quarters. In the first half the Juniors' playing equalled that of the Seniors, for the score at the close of the first half was 8-8; but in the second half the Seniors got the best of the Juniors, the final score being 24 to 8.

C. F. G. PREPARE REPORT.

Last Wednesday evening the Helopachee Camp Fire held a ceremonial meeting at which all but one member were present. The candles were lit by Florence Krook, Inez Swartz and Lola Runck. Roll call, answered by each girl giving her rank or listing her honors, was taken by the secretary, Ruth Dirks. One new member, Alice Bong, was admitted into the circle, and Inez Swartz and Florence Krook were initiated to the rank of Wood Gatherer. Singing the motion song, "Mystic Fire," brought back to the Camp Fire the old spirit which has for some time been lagging, and all the girls have resolved to be as faithful to their Camp Fire as they were of

WINTHROP THURSDAY

The N. U. H. S. musical organizations have accepted invitations to give joint concerts at the Winthrop City hall and at the Lafayette Consolidated School on next Thursday evening, February 18, and on Washington's birthday, February 22, respectively. The program has been arranged as follows:

1. a) Schubert's "March Militaire."
b) Beethoven's "Minuet in G."
High School Orchestra.
2. Cornet Solo by Morton Ouren.
3. a) "Wynken, Blinker and Nod."
b) "Ole Uncle Moon."
c) "Big Brown Bear."

ASSEMBLY PROGRAM.

On February 5, our assembly program was different from most of our programs this year.

First, under Mrs. Olsen's charge, several songs were sung. Hildegard Amann's Swedish dance was followed by the play, "Squaring It With the Boss," given by the Dramatic club. The cast was as follows:

Jimmy Greening Stanley Simons
Beth, Jimmy's wife Viola Buchholz
Aunt Hortense, Jimmy's aunt
..... Virginia Alwin
Mr. Dunne, Jimmy's boss Lowell Rieke
Aunt Clarissa, Beth's aunt
..... Alice Vercoe
Johnny Bender, neighbor's boy ...
..... Charles Veeck

Friday noon, one of our cheer leaders ventured to call out a yell for our team. Mr. Camp, surprised by this display of spirit, tore up his list of talkers. This doesn't mean, however, that there is pep left in our high school, because there isn't enough to speak of. Ever since the Sleepy Eye game last fall the spirit, here, has been weak, but Sleepy Eye is coming down here the 19th, maybe that will bring back your pep. (Let's hope so.)

After this when the cheer leaders want you to yell, do so, and don't sit in the assembly and act like pieces of furniture, but yell; use your voices to yell and not to laugh at the tactics the leaders use to make you yell.

"Is dem you all's chickens?"
"Cohse dey's my all's chickens. Whose chickens did you s'pose they was?"

"I wasn' s'posin' nuffin about 'em. But I will say dat it's mighty lucky a chicken won' come arunnin' an awaggin' its tail when its reg'lar owner whistles, same as a dog."

Old colored Mammy: "Ah wants a ticket fo' Florence."

Ticket Agent (after 10 minutes of weary thumbing over railroad guides): "Where is Florence, madam?"

Old colored Mammy: "Settin' over dar on de bench, suh."

SOMETHING NEW.

Who hasn't noticed the new addition to our assembly, namely the new curtain? What an improvement. Blue velour draperies are over dauby landscape with would-be clouds, which more closely resemble soap-bubbles! (We tender our apologies to the old curtain, of course; but you must admit the new is superior.)

A rather amusing situation at the Junior carnival last year convinced the Seniors that we needed a new curtain for the assembly stage. Accordingly, when they became the Alumni of '25, they purchased, with the aid of the Board of Education, that crying necessity to the H. S. entertainment; and, indeed, we caught our breath when first we beheld it. The Class of '25 chose a most fitting and lasting memorial, and we wish to express our sincere gratitude and profound appreciation for their gift.

"SOUNDS FROM THE SCHOOL-ROOM."

"Oh, Ferdie, have you some gum for me today?" These were the words which came to my ears just yesterday, and for that matter they do almost every day. Did I turn around to see who had voiced the plea for gum? No, dear reader, I did not, for there was no need to; I knew only too well that it was Miss Evelyn Schneider, and that she was addressing the question to the young man who was holding down the seat in front of her, and that his name was Ferdinand Fritsche. I knew only too well the answer. It came in a moment, the slight sound as something fell upon the desk of the gum wanter.

Once more I turned with aching head to the open geometry book before me. A moment later the five-minute bell rang, and exactly five minutes later, as the second bell tinkled forth the news that it was time to go to classes, I heard a slight commotion in a seat in the aisle next to mine and a bit back. Again, did I turn around to see who it was? No, for this time also there was no need; it was only Master Harley Schneider, almost late as usual. The students marched out to their classes, and the assembly teacher came in for the first period of the afternoon to watch with her eagle eye over the students who happened to be in the room for that period. These days several of the boys were painting the walls of the stage on the platform, and this afternoon they were at work on their job as usual. Occasionally from behind the new beautiful curtain sounds issued, sounds which indicated that the workers were on the job. They were on scaffolds high up. Once or twice a crash would echo forth from back of the curtain. I could hazard a guess as to their significance, especially when a faint and muffled, "ouch," also burst forth at the time of the crash.

Suddenly I heard a sound of hurrying footsteps, and noticed that the students were all poring over their lessons very enthusiastically. I did likewise, but out of the corner of my eye I looked to see the cause of the sudden hard burst of studying. It was the appearance of Mr. Dirks. I watched him as he made his way along the aisle until he came to the platform. A burst of laughter came just now from back of the curtain. As suddenly as it had come it died, for Mr. Dirks had made his way in back of the curtain at that instant. Then clear and stern issued the voice of the principal, he was mentioning something about their work and how every bit of the paint, must come off of the new curtain again. Then all was again silent, and I once more turned to my geometry. A moment later the bell rang, and that meant for me to hurry to my class. I did so, and in that room all was a buzz until the appearance of the teacher. Once in this class any show of carefreeness, which I may have had before I had entered, vanished. The proposition for the next day was explained first, and then the teacher began to select her victims, one by one. I held my breath as her eyes roved over the class. "Garnet," the voice of Miss Fritsche said, "will you take the proposition for today?"

As usual Garnet recited, but the manner in which he recited is worthy of mention here. It is very unconventional, he begins with his proposition, being prompted only six times; then he dives into the given and the proof, and any corrections which he may receive from the teacher, without fail is sure to argue out with her. During the recitation of this odd young gentleman, if you were to look at the rest of the class, you would never believe that they were in a class in school instead of watching a comedy in the movies. After this recitation is over, another victim is picked. I hold my breath once more—am I to be the one? That is the question that haunts me. Sometimes I am, and sometimes I escape; the times when I am the one, I reel back to my seat in an almost unconscious state of mind after my recitation is over. I could relate more, but I think that already I have told too much.

MUST BE SO.

Ferdie: "Even angels swear."
Cora: "How do you know?"
Ferdie: "Well, what does St. Peter say to folks who come there by mistake?"

CLASS NOTES

SENIOR SIMPLICITY.

The Physics classes have been having some "famous" debates in class for the past few days, concerning the Electron theory. It was discovered that there were some real debaters present, also some very firm believers in the theory.

Are the Seniors going to get the cup in basket ball? We all hope so. Come on teams, show the rest what spunk you have in you?

It won't be long before we'll be having a tremendously long and hard exam in English IV. It will cover all the work that we have gone over this year. Don't you lower classmen pity us?

The Home Economics Class II has been having a great deal of practice in making pies lately. They held their second pie sale the other evening at the game. By and by there will be some very expert cooks in the class.

Some of the members of Virgil class are certainly gifted with talent. The other day Orval was translating something about the Trojan arms and he translated it as follows: "As she saw me coming and my arms around Troy she was aghast."

JUNIOR JOYS.

At last our "tiny" Junior boys have grown up. If you don't believe it, just notice "Ronie" and "Schmidy."

After hearing some of the "Lincoln essays," we have concluded that certain individuals will be expert encyclopedias authors some day. Also, we had several good essays, and had good reasons for expecting one of the Juniors to win the medal.

Mr. Camp: "When did the United States acquire Cuba?"

Lorraine: "Why, I don't know the exact date."

Myra: "1898."

Bill R.: "We didn't acquire it at all."

Mr. Camp: "Myra, when did we acquire Texas?"

Myra (not going to be stung again): "We didn't acquire it; we annexed it."

Class: "har! har!"

At the Soph-Senior game did you notice how popular Bill Oswald was? A regular beau brummel!

FRESHMAN FOLLY.

Irene Pfeilman came limping back to school one day last week. That game with Sleepy Eye did not seem to please her.

The Freshies held their dance Saturday, the 6th. Did you go and find out what the Freshies could do?

Miss Treadwell (in Latin I class): "Melvin, translate the seventh sentence in paragraph 401."

Melvin Edwards: "The Germans got fresh with the Romans."

The General Science classes had a debate on the LaPlace Theory of the beginning of the world and Chamberlin and Moulton's Theory. Chamberlin and Moulton's Theory seems to be the best according to the class.

Katzy: "Did you see little Fido commit suicide on the bridge yesterday?"

Fat: "No, how did he do it?"

Katzy: "He put his tail in his mouth and said, 'This is the end.'"

BIRDSEYE VIEW OF BOYS' BASKETBALL.

By Oradell Wagner.
As Told To Me.

In the first half:

Johnny threw for a basket—missed? Jack tried for a basket—failed. Earl Schroepel fell on his knees. Jimmie failed to make a basket—Ep's fault.

Wonderful pause in the game broken by

Jimmie's fall as usual and Oradell said, "I guess he isn't through yet."

Jack, the star player of the sophomores, made a ringer; followed by another one—Hurray! (much applauding and yelling).

I guess Butts didn't play (soliloquizing.)

In the second half:

Koggy is some player—gee, he's swell.

Jimmie caught a fly; marvelous Very good game, ball hit the side lines.

Koggy did some spectacular running.

Monte has a pair of good lungs, Jimmie is protesting his niece (knees).

Seniors were out of air, called time out.

Whew! Oh, boy; Koggy has the ball again.

That guy fought to get that ball too. Lowell Rieke showing signs of being a champion.

Lastly—Puddle and Sleepy running side by side—puffing like steam engines.

Finis.

A BUSY CORNER.

Which is the busiest portion of New Ulm High? At least one student body thinks it is Rooms 115 and 116, the home of the Normal Training Department.

We Normalites began our second semester a week later than the rest of the High School. Now we are busy wrestling with our new subjects and teaching in grades six, seven and eight.

Although at times we complain of too much work, we never complain of a lack of variety of work. We have found out through actual experience that the State of Minnesota expects its teachers to be up and coming along more lines than one.

The following quotation which appears in one of our books was of interest to us, so we pass it on—"The teacher is our agent of the state who performs work of great value to society. Young persons, who are thinking of what they shall do when they leave school should consider teaching. Few professions offer opportunities for useful service equal to the profession of teaching."

After reading the quotations, who dares question our choice?

Policeman (on shore): "I'm going to arrest you when you come out of there."

Man (in water): "Ha! ha! I'm not coming out. I'm committing suicide."

Miss Fritsche: "Stanley, what would you do if you had an eightsided figure?"

Stanley S.: "I'd start a side-show."

Teacher: "Use the word 'feature' in a sentence."

Garnet: "My, what big feature brother has!"

shall win some of the "lucre." The English I and II classes have an attractive leather book of their own compositions in the library now. It was written up by the students of "Merchant of Venice," and "Julius Caesar" and contains many interesting and original comments by the pupils. It will be a great help to future students of these classics, and the pupils are to be congratulated on the scholarly style of the work. It is modeled expressly on the books written up by the Minneapolis English students.
