Sleepy Eye was seeded in first place by the district coaches, Redwood Falls, second; Gibbon, third; and Morton, fourth. The Eagles were not seeded this year but after the ratings were out they defeated both Sleepy Eye and Redwood Falls by over 10 points. Keeping this in mind the District 10 Tourney should really be a fight to the finish.

Are You Worth It? It's Up To You!

Enough fat to make seven bars of soap; Enough iron to make a nail; Enough lime to whitewash a chicken coop; Enough magnesia to settle one stomach;—all together worth only ninety-eight cents. This is the chemical value of a human body.

But the real value can not be measured in dollars and cents. It all depends upon what an individual offers to society. We as high school students will soon be bearing the responsibilities of this troubled nation. Surely it will be important that each of us contributes more than his ninety-eight cents' worth.

The Question:

What is your opinion of N.U.H.S. school spirit?

Answers:

Margie Moe: I think the kids are afraid to yell for fear someone will hear them!

Bev Wilson: Not so hot! I think some of the kids don't even know the school song.

Mary Lou Schmitz: I don't think it is very good! A lot of the kids act like their afraid to yell and if they do they'll get laughed at!

Larrys Krueger: N.U.H.S. School Spirit was lousy in the beginning. But it has shown considerable improvement, especially in the Saint James game.

Ruthie Bakken: I think our school spirit is awful. We need more pep fests. Why doesn't each of the classes put on a pepfest?

"Sluggo" Palmer: Punk!

James Albright: I think the school spirit is lousy. Some just like to play basketball when they could be a good sport in any other outfit. [wrestling]

Ken Werner: If school spirit is something to eat; lead me to it!!

Cal Rolloff: You mean to say New Ulm High School has any school spirit. If they have they must be keeping it a spirit.

Jim Gasner: What School Spirit?

JoAnn Herrick and LaDonna Heck: Certain groups seem to have good school spirit but they don't get together.

Anonymous: N.U.H.S. students keep it in their shoes so they can lose while they run.

Betsy Oswald: If all the kids would put forth a little more effort instead of just a few we could have a much better effect. Booring is not common but often a few sections boo, showing bad school spirit.

Jacky Erickson: I think it's terrible considering our large student body.

Norma Jean Gehrke: Its awful the kids just don't seem to care whether we lose or win.

Fashion Chatter

by Ann and Mimi

If you didn't go to the Woodchopper's Brawl you missed the special attraction, the Paper Belles. Of course you must have heard what a sensation they were. It's a pretty good idea and a thrifty one too, paper costumes we mean. Speaking of costumes, Larrys Krueger and Mike Pollei certainly had some outfits. So did Bob Asleson and Al Buggert. They made swell lumberjacks. A few others had swell costumes too. We would like to extend our thanks to the Journalism class for the wonderful party. Everyone that went had a good time we are sure. [None of us would have minded getting one of those neat prizes, especially the fudge made by Miss MacLaughlin]. We hope next years' journalism class can do as well.

P.S. The Swing Band was really on the ball.

You Keep Coming Back Like A Song

Surprising isn't it? After seniors have been out of school a short time, they always come back to visit with the administration and faculty. We have noticed this because of the many alumni who have recently been seen around the school. Some are college students and some of them are servicemen, who spend many hours relating their experiences to the teachers.

This all goes to show that the faculty at NUHS have a genuine interest in their students even after graduation. It also shows that the teachers aren't such "bad eggs" after all! To the Seniors—See you around NUHS in the years to come!

With the music festival so close at hand the chorus and glee club seem to have worried looks on their faces.

On The Shelf

by LaDonna

For this review I decided to take two books of a similar type. These two are biographical novels of famous women. Despite the similarity of type, the subjects of the biographies make the novels very different.

The first book is Behold Your Queen by Gladys Melvern. It is a colorful story of one of the Bioe's most interesting characters, the lovely Queen Esthc. The background for the novel is Persia of Biblical times. Intrigue and danger are entwined in this fast-moving drama whose characters—Esther, Mudecao, Ahasvorus, and Haman—are familiar to all.

A little more advanced reading is offered by Irving Stone in his historical romance, The Presidents Lady. This is the controversial story of Rachel and Andrew Jackson. Rachel, a beautiful, warm-hearted girl, fell in love with Andrew before he had come into the public's eye. A brief, stormy marriage made their romance scandalous but Andrew and Rachel were determined to find a way. A way was found but the price was damaging to Andrew Jackson career. For this book too, there has been such a wide use of reference material that the novel seems almost historically true.

What was your reaction to the "Paper Belles"?

John Heymann—They were pretty good—too much paper.

Dale Gluth—Real good—would like repeat performance without so much paper.

Naomi Schapekahn—Something different.

"Red" Brodersen—Wasn't long enough.

Richard Ginkel—Something new, something different, something educational.

Elaine Gluth—I liked it—showed that they had lots of practice.

Miss McLaughlin—Awfully cute "I thought I'd die laughing. Don't know when I've laughed so much".

Cleo Harmening—Thought they were cute.

Darwin Jones—They were pretty nice [he had a peculiar gleam in his eye].

It's Just a Game by Janet Schmid

Basketball season is heart-break season. The last nerve-wracking seconds of a game bring an assortment of emotions. Expressions of joy, sadness, or disgust are seen on the faces of the spectators. Why should there be so much emotion?

Many people would say, "It's just a game." These are words of consolation to many individuals; the hope that the next time the team will do better. They have another chance to win a game; and yet, this chance isn't available in every instance.

People often wish that they could roll back the years of their lives and do something differently from the way in which they had done it before. In life, however, this is impossible. Life is not "just a game."

In this way, these associated with the heart-breaks of basketball season have an advantage. The game is played, rising to peaks of excitement and occasional lulls of confidence. Towards the end of the game, a definite tenseness is apparent with both spectators and players. As time runs out, the game rises to a climax and the numbers on the scoreboard determine the emotions of the spectators.

The defeated are more quiet and composed than the victors. It is obvious that someone must have spoken those inevitable, comforting words, "It's just a game."

Nessmen Defeat Springfield to Win by Fifteen Points

The Eagles defeated the Springfield Tigers on February 1 by a margin of 15 points. The Eagles led all the way through the ball game.

All the Nessmen had a chance to get into the contest. Ted Ranehim, Ernie Sauer, and Doyle Schneider entered the game in the second quarter and layed off and on until the end of the game, Warren Sonday, Jim Kagermaier and Ken Werner saw action in the last half. At the half the Eagles were leading 37 to 17.

Bill Fenske was doing a fine job for the Eagles in the first half but he twisted his ankle and had to leave the game. He scored nine points before leaving the game.

John Heymann was high point man in the game with 19 points. Mike Pollei was second high with 10. The final score was New Ulm 65, Springfield 50.

The B team downed Springfield 40 to 33.

Fifty boys from the local chapter went to the Lakers-Boston Celtic game February 16. On their way up they stopped at the Minnesota Valley Artificial Breeding Farm. They were taken on an interesting tour of it.

Heymann, Asleson Are Boy Legislators

Chosen to represent NUHS as Boy Senator and Boy Representative in the HI-Y Model Legislature in April, John Heymann and Robert Asleson attended aP re-Legislative Training Conference on the campus of Hamline University last Saturday.

The HI-Y Model Legislature will convene at the State Capitol April 25 and 26. It will deal specifically with the legislative aspects of government.

Between now and April 25 the boys will try to interest as many as possible in the drafting of an original piece of legislation. This bill will then be carried to the Capitol in April. There will be approximately 190 boys in attendance. The whole program is sponsored by the Y.M.C.A.'s of Minnesota and Hamline University.

More, The Merrier!

There goes another Dittrich! There are three families of them each having three students attending NUHS. The Ulrichs are close behind with seven students. Anderson, Bakken, and Mielke are the next in line with five. There are four from each of the following families; Gieseke, Roloff, Schmidt, Keckeisen, and Gehrke.

Student Teacher Reber Returns to Gustavus

One person in NUHS wasn't happy over the February 22 vacation. He was William Reber, student teacher from Gustavus Adolphus College. Mr. Reber's four-week teaching would have been completed on Friday, but because there was no school he had to come back the following Monday for just the one day.

Mr. Reber said he liked the stu-

G.A.A. by Joanne Bierbaum

The senior high G.A.A. has now completed its volleyball tournaments. Class tournaments were won by the "honorable" Seniors, with the Juniors and Sophomores taking second and third place respectively. Other team competition was led by Barbara Fesenmaier's team. Runner-up squad was captained by Marianne Martinka.

Basketball and ping pong tourneys are in full swing. Miss Cave, G.A.A. instructor, chose senior girls as captains. They are Barb Fesenmaier, Carol Niemann, Liz Bakken Dee Dittrich, Margaret Zangel, and Norma Reiser. These girls and their teammates clash with one another every Monday after school. Two rounds have been completed and some scoring gals are Jean Keckeisen, Doris Johns, Joanne Bierbaum, Gerry Kramer, Betsy Oswald, Barb Keckeisen, Barb Fesenmaier, Marcella Hamann, and Bev Bloedel. At the completion of these tournaments there will also be class tournaments as there were in volleyball. This should provide some real rivalry.

Over thirty girls have entered the annual ping pong tourney. Only the first round has been completed.

The smoothness with which these tournaments are run in due to the efforts of Miss Cave, two "book girls," Barb Keckeisen and Gerry Kramer, and the cooperation of all the girls in G.A.A.

dents here, and he should know because he taught five classes out of a possible six. He said, "I have been very busy," as he went on to explain that he taught English 11, Speech 9, and 11, and two English 12 units.

When asked what he preferred to teach, English or Speech, he said it was a draw, and that after graduation in spring he wants to teach either subject in some school. He stated that he'd like to teach in a city that had a sporty golf course. Last summer he was busy working in Alaska so had little time for golf.

Mr. Reber lives in Cambridge, Minnesota.

Wilderness Adventurer

Ferrier To Appear on Assembly March 14

Ben Ferrier will present his "Canadaan Wilderness Adventures" in assembly Friday on March 14.

It will be a demonstration and talk accompanied by colored motion pictures of Canada and Northern Minnesota. Ben Ferrier's life no the canoe trails started 30 years ago as a professional guide. During the last eighteen years he has been leading these men on expeditions in the Arctic and sub-arctic regions of Canada and Alaska. He has altogether been on a hundred and thirty-five canoe trips and traveled more than forty thousand miles by canoe.

Students Acclaim Duncan Concert

Even our Minnesota weather didn't keep people away from the community concert on Tuesday, February 19.

One of the first things the audience was impressed by was the wonderful composure with which Todd Duncan received them.

All of his free flowing emotions came out in every song which he sang. Todd Duncan prefers the world of song to the operatic and dramatic stage. The last half hour of the program consisted mostly of encores. He ended by asking for no applause for "Were You There", a negro spiritual.

Many of the NUHS students talked to him after the concert including Faith Fischer who told him that she had studied at MacPhail for three years and was going to be in a contest in Minneapolis on February 23. When he heard the title of the song she was to sing, he immediately sang a few lines of it to her and told her to "Have faith and never fear."

Business Managers, Report!

by Joy and Barb

Most students don't realize what goes on between editions of the Graphos. So as business managers we thought we'd tell you what we do to help make the Graphos possible. In the fall of the year we went from store to store, downtown and collected money for advertisements. In three weeks we had receipts for 44 advertisements. Four of them were two inches and cost nine dollars a year; forty of them were one inch, at five dollars a year. This makes a total of $236. After each edition of the Graphos, we deliver papers to these forty-four stores. This is only one phase in putting out the paper, but it is an important one because it involves that "almighty" dollar.

'A' and 'B' Twirlers Perform at Tourney

NUHS A and B twirlers performed between halves of the Sleepy Eye-New Ulm game. They marched and then twirled to the two school songs while they formed an "I" for Indians and an "E" for Eagles.
